Fortress Vila Vella and Badia de Tossa
Tossa de Mar, Catalonia, Spain

In a majestic Mediterranean setting, the walled Old Town of Tossa de Mar is the only example of a fortified medieval town still standing on the Catalan coast and dates from the late 14th century. Stone walls with battlements, towers and turrets surround the charming narrow cobbled streets and medieval buildings. A castle stood until the early 19th century at the highest point on the tree-clad promontory.

Namib Desert
Sossusvlei, Namibia

Surrounded by towering red and orange sand dunes, some of the highest in the world, reaching 400m, Sossusvlei is a large white salt and clay pan at the end of the Tsauchab River. During exceptional rainfall it fills with water, becoming a glassy lake. A wide variety of plants and animals have adapted to survive the harsh desert conditions. The highest of the dunes are partially covered with vegetation.

Jahangir Mahal Palace, Orchha
Madhya Pradesh, India

In the 17th century this fortress palace was built by King Bir Singh Deo in honour of the Mughal emperor Jahangir. The huge sandstone structure with domes, hanging balconies and terraces, has three storeys, hundreds of chambers and grand irwans (gateways) large enough to allow elephants to enter. Orchha is steeped in history and is famous for its palaces and temples, reflecting the glory of its rulers.

Chapel of Madonna di Vitaleta
San Quirico d'Orcia, Siena, Italy

This small chapel in an evocative setting in the rolling hills and poppy fields of the Val d'Orcia, framed by cypress trees, was built in the spot where, legend has it, the Virgin Mary appeared to a shepherdess. In 1533, a statue of the Virgin Mary was installed in the church, today conserved in the Church of Madonna di Vitaleta in San Quirico. The present chapel was restored and redesigned in the 1800s.

Anse Source d'Argent Beach
La Digue Island, Seychelles

The Seychelles are an archipelago of 115 islands in the Indian Ocean, divided into two groups, the larger granite islands and the smaller coral islands. They are famed for their exquisitely beautiful beaches, lapped by calm, shallow turquoise waters, with soft white sand and a lush backdrop of palm trees and dense rainforest. Huge granite boulders sculptured by the elements lay strewn along the beaches.

Izmailovsky Market
Moscow, Russia

Situated in the beautifully architected Izmailovsky Kremlin in the Moscow suburbs, this market has a truly Russian national atmosphere. A wide range of souvenirs, gifts and traditional crafts such as hand-painted matryoshka dolls and second-hand goods is sold in the market. It is sited in a landscaped park, the former country residence of Tsar Alexei Mikhailovich, who initiated the park's construction.

Great Wall of China, Jinshanling
Northern China

This ancient series of walls and fortifications, 21,196km in length, was originally conceived by Emperor Qin Shi Huang in the 3rd century B.C. as a means of preventing invasions from barbarian nomads and became a powerful symbol of Chinese civilisation's enduring strength. The best-known and best-preserved section of the Great Wall was built between the 14th and 17th centuries during the Ming dynasty.

Ano Symi, Island of Symi
Rhodes, Greece

The main town of the island of Symi, north-west of Rhodes has a truly picturesque setting with colourful houses and elegant mansions around the harbour. For many years largely abandoned by its people, it has seen some resurgence recently. It has many interesting churches, some dating from the Byzantine period. There is an archaeological museum and the 14th-century Castle of the Knights of St. John.

Country church, Hillsborough
New Hampshire, USA

A small white church in a village in New Hampshire, framed by sugar maple trees across a carpet of orange and yellow leaves. It is one of the New England states renowned for its autumn foliage where trees explode in a profusion of vibrant hues in September and October – red, gold, amber, orange, yellow and brown. In spring the sap from the sugar maples is collected and boiled down to make maple syrup.

Spirit Island, Maligne Lake,
Jasper, Alberta, Canada

Set within a canyon ringed by steep mountains, with views of three glaciers, Maligne Lake is famed for its azure water. Spirit Island is one of the most photographed locations in the Canadian Rockies and a spiritual place for the Stoney Nakota First Nation. Connected to the shore by a narrow isthmus most of the year, it becomes separated in spring by rain and snowmelts causing the water level to rise.
